

Pairing Enzo to Receiver

1

Ensure your transmitter and receiver are paired. Check if your Enzo is in storage mode, indicated by a red LED that emits only when the button is being held. If your Enzo is not in storage mode, please see our “Putting an Enzo in storage mode” guide.

2

Turn your receiver on with the switch located on the left side.

3

Put your Enzo in pairing mode, hold the button for about 15 seconds, until it flashes with an orange light. You will see the Enzo go through 2 modes before reaching the pairing mode, first will be a solid green light, then a green blinking light. Keep holding the button until you see the orange light, then release.

4

Hold the pair button on the receiver for 4 seconds until the LED on the front begins blinking green, quickly press the button on the Enzo. The Enzo will rapidly blink several times and then stop.

This signifies you have successfully paired the Enzo.
